The grounds are embellished by a beautiful statue of the Sacred Heart, and a Grotto of Lourdes; also by shade trees, shrubs, various types of evergreens, a terrace lawn, a rock garden, creeping vines, and a series of gravel drives.

The elementary grades of the school follow the program of studies prescribed by the Fall River diocese. The high school is accredited by affiliation with the Catholic University of America. The high school program comprises general, classical, scientific, and commercial courses. The Catholic University prescribes the annual examinations for the students in Sacred Hearts Academy, and on the successful completion of fifteen units of work the student is awarded her diploma.

In 1929, a small boy's department was added to the curriculum of the academy, and now comprises the eight elementary grades and is an entirely separate and distinct unit in itself. The classrooms of Sacred Hearts Academy are spacious and airy, are flooded with sunshine and are equipped in the most modern manner.

The following quotation from the "Catholic Messenger" demonstrates the esteem in which Sacred Hearts Academy is held throughout the country:

"Keen observers state that the school has a tradition of thoroughness and depth in scholarship, and is remarkable for the poise, quiet steadiness and solid piety which dignity, high ideals, fearlessness, it imparts to its students. The atmosphere of the school is home-like and affectionate, making the pupils feel that they are children of the house."

Cassidy, so enjoyed their experiment in international friendship that they've opened their home to another student, 15-year-old Carmen Moran of Santiago, Chile.

Even Harder to Meet Test

VATICAN CITY (NC)—It is hard to become a saint, but even harder to be declared one because of the stringent scrutiny carried on by the Sacred Congregation of Rites.

The bulk of the Congregation's work centers on the investigation of the lives, virtues and miracles of persons proposed for beatification and canonization.

Record Enrollment At Sacred Heart

Twenty-Eighth Annual Registration Reaches 132, Academy's Largest

Little Miss Laureta Rourke of New York has just returned to Sacred Hearts Academy, Fairhaven, after a long vacation, a great part of which was spent in Texas with her mother, visiting friends. She made many interesting trips and excursions in the South, getting as far as Mexico City.

Though Miss Rourke is but entering fifth grade, she is very observing and was awake to the many contrasts between the South and the North... differences in climate, society, industry, occupations, habits and customs. While learning a great deal in the South, she did not forget the Nature Study Class of her northern school, returning with specimens of cotton in various stages of development, and sugar cane.

The return of Miss Rourke completes the enrollment at the Academy with a record registration of 132. This twenty-eighth annual enrollment is the largest in the history of the school, being an increase of 30% over that of last year.

Miss Rourke was welcomed Sunday by her little friend Miss Teela Lorenzen, also from New York. She was glad to join her old friends again and to greet many new ones. The current enrollment includes pupils from Boston, Quincy, Providence, Hyannis, Sandwich, Falmouth, Osterville, West Hyannisport, Tiverton, Fitchburg, Stonington, Fall River, Somerset, New York, New Bedford, Acushnet and Fairhaven. Twenty per cent of this year's students are from Fairhaven, 50 per cent from New Bedford, and the remaining 30 per cent from out of town.

ACADEMY SHOWS ENROLLMENT GAIN

Enrollment in Sacred Hearts Academy shows a 15 percent increase this year. New Bedford leads with 54 percent of the children from that city, 25 percent from this town and the balance from out-of-town. New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island are represented among the students.

At the close of the annual retreat, the first week in October, officers of the various classes and clubs were chosen. Miss Livia Rodrigues of this town was chosen president of the School Sodality with Miss Lillian Cookson of Haverhill as vice-president.

The Aquin Club of Social Activities elected Miss Frances Brown president and Miss Evelyn Holt vice-president. Both are from New Bedford. A busy program for the Winter is planned by the club.
